

ALEXANDRIA.

THURSDAY EVENING, JUNE 16.

YESTERDAY AT the very time the R. E. Lee post of Confederate veterans, of Richmond, were marching through Washington on their way to Boston, to show that with them the war is only a memory, and that they and the people from among whom they came have now nothing but the kindest feelings for their Northern fellow citizens, a protest was received by President Cleveland from the G. A. R. of Ohio, against his recent war and patriotic order for the return to the several States of the flags in the War Department that were captured during the war between the States, inclosed in a letter from the republican Governor of that State, in which he says: "The patriotic people of this State are shocked and indignant beyond anything I can express. I earnestly request you to revoke the order that has given such unqualified offense." The Governor also sent a telegram to Gen. Boynton, at Washington, asking him to take legal advice and institute proceedings to enjoin the return of the "rebel" flags which were captured by Ohio troops. The manifestations of restored amity between the once disunited sections of the country must all, according to the G. A. R., and the Northern republicans, come from the South. When exhibited in the North, they are denounced as evidences of concessions to "traitors and rebels." The fact that large bodies of men threaten the President with personal insult for vetoing a plundering pension bill and publicly denounce him for approving an order for removing from the war department reminders of civil war, shows plainly enough that it is too soon for that political party to which they belong to be entrusted with the control of the government.

SENATOR VANCE says: "If the President cannot hear, without offense, the candid criticism of those friends who differ with him, he is unworthy of his great office. Should I, for the sake of the patronage he has to bestow, suppress or forego my honest convictions, I would prove unworthy of mine. At all events I would desire Mr. Cleveland to know that I have made no secret of my opinions concerning his policy at any time." This is the way every true and wise democrat should talk. How else can the President be expected to know whether or not his administration is proving satisfactory to the men who nominated and elected him? Then, too, it should not be forgotten that democratic voters see and think just as well as the men who pretend to represent them, and that the fact that they not only know that affairs in Washington are not going on to suit them, but that their wishes in that respect are misrepresented to the President, is by no means conducive to the preservation of their interest in the success of their party, the more especially as they also know that the policy of the administration is to repress all manifestation of such interest by its public declaration (which, however, it disregards whenever so disposed) that active democratic work, instead of meriting, is an effective disqualification for, administration favors.

OTHER CITIES much smaller than Alexandria are getting free delivery of mail; why cannot we? Is the matter being pushed with proper energy? If so, who is pushing it? It is said that we must have our streets properly marked and our houses numbered; why does not the City Council have it done? We are authorized by a gentleman to say that he knows a highly competent man who will gladly put numbers wherever they are lacking, without charging a cent to the city, if allowed to charge each householder so furnished twenty-five cents for the number. Stir up, gentlemen of the Common Council; you have one more meeting yet before your terms expire; signalize it by passing a proper ordinance and let us, too, have a free delivery. "Show us, now, that you are worth your breeding." It is a reproach to our old city that this thing has been neglected and that Annapolis and Hagerstown are to have mail facilities which Alexandria has not. Who is to bear the responsibility?

GENERAL FAIRCHILD, Commander-in-Chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, at an immense meeting of that association, in New York, last night, in a speech denouncing the President for his order directing the return of the flags captured during the war to their respective States, said: "May God palsy the hand that wrote the order! May God palsy the brain that conceived it, and may God palsy the tongue that dictated it." Whether Mr. Cleveland can be re-elected is, to say the least, doubtful; but as the South controls democratic conventions, such talk as this, if persisted in, will be sure to renaminate him.

IF THE STATE democratic convention shall, as advised, recommend that the democratic voters express, by their nominees for the legislature, their opinion on the subject of the advisability of accepting the creditors' proposition for the settlement of the State debt, the same idea must prevail in the selection of the delegates to the convention, for the recommendation referred to cannot be adopted unless it is favored by a majority of those delegates.

THE NEGROES employed at the railroad are gobs in Cleveland, Ohio, were mobbed last Tuesday by white laborers, and some of them had their limbs broken, and some received other severe injuries. If such an outrage had been committed in the South it would have been attributed by Northern republican newspapers to "unrepublican, unreasonable and cruel race antipathy." But as it occurred in the North such papers speak of it only as a natural trouble.

WHEN THE interstate commerce commission first met it suspended the operation of the short and long haul provision of the interstate commerce bill on Southern railroads. It yesterday decided that it is not its province to suspend that provision, and that it can only act on that provision in cases in which special complaint shall be made of its violation, and that in the meantime the roads must put their own construction upon it.

FROM WASHINGTON.

[Special Correspondence of the ALEX. GAZETTE.]

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 16, 1887.

The chief topic of interest here to-day is the fuss the President's order for the return of the battle flags now in the War Department to the States from whose soldiers they were captured during the war has kicked up in the North. At one o'clock to-day ex-Secretary Boutwell, as counsel for the Governor of Ohio, applied to the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia for a writ of mandamus compelling the Secretary of War to show cause why he shall not be estopped from surrendering government property unless authorized to do so by act of Congress. Southern people here say it makes no difference to them or to their States whether any body shall oppose Mr. Boutwell or not, that no Southern State asked for the return of the flags, and that none of them will suffer if they be not returned. They do, however, express some curiosity to know what the President is going to do about it. Not only the members of the G. A. R., but also the Northern republicans here, with hardly an exception, sustain the action of Mr. Boutwell, Senator Manderson going so far as to say that the action of the President is like returning to a burglar, after he was pardoned, the tools he had when arrested.

The two U. S. Senators from Georgia and several of the Representatives from that State are here to-day, for the purpose, it is reported, of urging upon the President the appointment of ex-Representative Hammond, of their State, to the vacant seat on the Supreme Bench. Ex-Senators from the White House say that Mr. Hammond has no chance, but that the place referred to will be given either to Secretary Lamar, Senator Morgan, or Mr. Semmes, of New Orleans, all of whom are from the circuit that was presided over by the late Associate Justice Woods, and all familiar with the civil war.

Virginians here to-day say the selection of Roanoke as the place for holding the democratic convention of their State, was a wise one, for the reason that that place is so far from the parts of the State that usually send large delegations, that it will tend to reduce the size of the convention by deterring those from attending who do not intend to take an active part in the proceedings, and thereby secure deliberate consideration to every proposition brought before the convention.

The close vote in the U. S. Senate will, as previously stated in this correspondence, induce the republican members of that body to raise objections to the election of the new democratic senators from California, Indiana and West Virginia, but as there are no contestants for the seats of the two former, they of course will have to be admitted at first, though the legality of their election be subsequently investigated. But as there is a contestant for Mr. Faulkner's seat, he will not be admitted to take part in the organization of the Senate unless Mr. Lucas shall withdraw, but the certificates of both will be referred to the elections committee, and the republicans thereby have a sufficient majority to organize the Senate's committees as they shall deem proper.

A gentleman from Petersburg here to-day states that ex-Gov. Cameron doesn't hesitate to avow his hostility to Gen. Mahone, and some of the General's subalterns, but that he says he will fight them in, and not outside, the republican party.

A gentleman from Manassas, here to-day, thoroughly acquainted with the local affairs of that place, says the prevailing impression there is that Mr. Todd, the preacher against whom serious charges have been brought, is entirely innocent of those charges, and that the principal witness is a colored man, whose reliability, to say the least, is not unquestioned.

The U. S. S. Dispatch took a party of officials, including Secretary Whitney and Admiral L'Vingues, of the French navy, to Mount Vernon to-day.

The President made the following appointments to-day: John G. Nelson, of Minnesota, to be Receiver of Public Moneys at Fergus Falls, Minn.; James Greeley, of Minnesota, to be Register of the Land Office at Redwood Falls, Minn.

State Senator Meredith, of the Alexandria district, in Virginia, is in the city to-day. The Senator's term will expire next December, and he says he will not be a candidate for re-election, and could not accept a renomination if tendered him. He expresses himself as confident that the democrats will elect a majority of the legislature of his State next fall, and says if they do, Mr. Barbour will be elected to the Senate.

DISAPPOINTMENT DROVE HIM INSANE.—On a farm near Wetpquin Creek, Dorchester county, Md., reside the family of Covington Wilson, consisting of himself, wife and one son. Up to one week ago the family had been a happy and prosperous one. The son was the idol of the household—a bright and industrious boy. About one year ago he became of age, and in a few months began to look around for a wife. It was not long before he met a young and exceedingly attractive girl. In a few weeks they were both in love, and things looked favorable for a happy union. About the 1st of March this year another young man called to see her. He was likewise pleased with her, and after only a few weeks' courtship they were married—thus leaving young Wilson out in the cold. The young man bore up under his disappointment as best he could until about one week ago, when he began to show signs of insanity. Sleep has left him, and he wanders around, declaring that he is dying, and that his soul is already in hell. He has become so desperate in his manner and expressions that the father has applied to State's Attorney Rider for a jury inquiring into lunacy.

FOSTER AGAIN.—Gen. T. L. Rosser in speaking of politics says:

"The democratic party of the North is not what the South wants. It is made up of the worst elements at the North. It has got all anarchy, nihilism, whiskeyism and all the other ills. The republican party embraces the business men and the energy of the North, while our Northern ally is made up of copperheads and those who were disloyal. If the republicans nominate John Sherman it is my opinion there will be some very independent voting at the South. I do not wish to say that the South is going over to the republicans, for I am not sufficiently posted to say that, but I think Virginia and North Carolina will go republican."

The jury in the Sharp trial has been completed.

VIRGINIA NEWS.

Emory and Henry College, has conferred the title of LL. D. on the Hon. John Goode. The Culpeper Minute Men will go into a week's encampment at Fauquier Springs July 15.

The Fauquier Telephone Company has completed its line to Amisville, Rappahannock county.

Dr. Talmage delivered an address at the closing commencement exercises of Washington and Lee University, yesterday.

James T. Turner, a well-known and highly respected citizen of upper Fauquier, died recently in Texas, where he was visiting his son.

Tazewell county has voted a subscription of $50,000 to the Virginia Western Railroad. The engineers are now at work in that county.

Maj. J. C. Covell, formerly principal of the Deaf, Dumb and Blind Asylum at Staunton, died in Romey, W. Va., a few days since.

An epidemic of flux is raging in Bedford county. A number of deaths have occurred. Scarcely a family in a large area has escaped the disease.

The Governor has received a letter from Chief Justice Waite saying that he cannot go to Richmond to sit in the coupon-crusher injunction cases.

Mr. Isham Keith, of Warrenton, has sold his horse St. Julian to Mr. J. M. Drawbough, who owns Maggie Mitchell, for one thousand dollars. St. Julian's trotting record is inside of 2.30.

Mr. Richard Stokes, cashier of the Rockville (Md.) National Bank, and Miss Catherine S. Baker, daughter of Mr. C. S. Baker, one of the firm of Baker & Co., of Winchester, were married yesterday.

The first annual convention of Virginia State Firemen's Association opened in Richmond yesterday afternoon. Representatives are present from Norfolk, Portsmouth, Lynchburg, Petersburg and Danville.

Mr. J. H. Lemonie, of Sharp's Wharf, Richmond county, has sunk an artesian well on his place 300 feet deep, at a cost of $200. The water is lively and good, and the well attracts much attention in that section.

F. D. Simpson, a conductor on the Richmond and Petersburg Railroad, was knocked down from the roof of a freight car Tuesday night by being struck by a bridge, under which the train was passing. It was his first trip.

On Saturday afternoon last a painful accident happened to Theo. Dilger, jeweler, at Warrenton, who was using a blow pipe over an alcohol lamp. The wick of the lamp blew out into his face, burning one side of his face, his left ear and mouth.

Seven men were badly injured at the electric light works in course of erection in Petersburg, yesterday, by a heavy beam falling upon and crushing them. One of the parties, James Bryant, had his leg and back broken, and cannot recover.

The commencement exercises of Randolph Macon College opened yesterday morning. A letter was read from Hon. Jefferson Davis, acknowledging the receipt of an invitation to be present, in which he expresses his sympathy with the college as sowing the seeds of morality and religion.

The deal by which the Norfolk and Western Railroad expects to control the Shenandoah Valley contemplates the purchase of the majority of the first mortgage bonds of the Shenandoah Valley and the issue of new securities after foreclosure, which will be issued to old security holders as the Norfolk and Western people see fit.

Yesterday evening, as the Day Line steamer Carolina was moving out of her dock at Norfolk, her bells became disarranged and refused to work, and she ran into the steamer John Rorer, of the Newport News line, cutting through her starboard guard rail the wheel-house. The Rorer was not disabled and the Carolina was not injured, and both proceeded on their respective trips.

Bethel Academy commencement exercises took place yesterday by a joint celebration of the two literary societies, the Lee and Washington, which consisted of orations, essays, debates, declamations and a vaudeville. Medals were awarded for excellence in the various studies, and were presented by Maj. R. Taylor Scott. The final drill came off in the afternoon after which the corps disbanded.

Chicken thieves raided the premises of Mr. Ed. Russell, near Aldie, one night last week, capturing about thirty fowls, which they sold for $1.50. Mr. Russell and others followed on their trail, and succeeded in capturing them in the northern part of Loudoun county. They were tried before Justice Hemphreys, who committed four of them to jail for six months, and the other two for two months. They were Fauquier negroes and said they were on their way to Adamstown, Md.

Yesterday's session of the County Court of Stafford County, Judge Charles H. Ashton presiding, was mainly occupied in the contested election cases of the people vs. Chasley and Kennedy, who had received certificates of election from the returning board to the offices of treasurer and sheriff respectively. Several hours were occupied in arguments from both sides, in hearing dilatory pleas and motions to quash, and the demurrer to the petition of the contestants, owing to alleged insufficiency, etc., all of which were overruled by the court, to which a lengthy bill of exceptions was taken by the contestants. The contestants then stated they were ready to go into the merits of the case, when the contestants, by counsel moved a continuance until the July term, which was granted. The grand jury found indictments against four out of the five registrars for false registrations. These cases will be tried at the next term, and if sustained will throw out every district of the county but one.

ATTEMPTED SUICIDE.—The causes leading to Mrs. Nannie Rodgers' attempts on Tuesday to kill herself in Washington were made known yesterday. A year ago Mrs. Rodgers was living with her husband and two children in King George county. George Little, a painter, of Washington, formed her acquaintance, which soon ripened into illicit friendship. Mr. Rodgers was startled one morning to find that his wife had eloped with Little. The guilty pair went to Washington and finally settled at 1241 Delaware avenue, a section of the city where their concealment would be a protection to them. Little led an indolent life, and failing to get work he enlisted in the navy. About a week ago he committed suicide by jumping overboard in Hampton Roads. The news of his death Mrs. Rodgers read in the papers, and she declared that she wanted to die. Tuesday morning she tried to shoot herself, but was prevented; at 5 o'clock she took arsenic, and yesterday she was in a critical condition at Providence Hospital.

How Pale You Are!

is frequently the exclamation of one lady to another. The fact is not a pleasant one to have mentioned, but still the fact may be a kindly one, for it sets the one addressed to thinking, apprises her of the fact that she is not in good health, and leads her to seek a reason therefor. Pallor is almost always attendant upon the first stages of consumption. The system is enfeebled, and the blood is impoverished. Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" will act as a tonic upon the system, will enrich the impoverished blood, and restore roses to the cheek.

TO-DAY'S TELEGRAPHIC NEWS.

Foreign News.

BERLIN, June 16.—Scheuren, the celebrated landscape painter, has died at Dusseldorf.

At a meeting of the Dukes of Coburg and Edinburgh recently it was decided not to depart from the legal line of succession.

LONDON, June 16.—Mr. Dillon will ask the government to sanction the appointment of a select committee to inquire into the charges made against the police during the evictions at Bodyke.

The Russian government semi-officially explains that Russian troops occupied Keski in order to protect the flank of the new railway.

Advices from Burmah say that severe fighting took place at Kyonk Sailing on Sunday last, and that 195 Dacots were killed.

The St. Petersburg correspondent of the Times learns that a large tract of country near Merv has been purchased by a Russian company for a cotton plantation, and the investment is already proving satisfactory. He says that the Russian government will not allow foreign competition, an American company having been refused permission to engage in a similar enterprise. He also learns that Russian petroleum is being supplied in large quantities to Persia.

The Queen is in excellent health.

The relative positions of the yachts in the jubilee race are still uncertain, as the breeze prevents them from being seen.

Mr. Popham writes to the papers protesting against the gross negligence of which the captain of the steam yacht Pandora was guilty in running into the American yacht Dauntless. He says the collision took place at three o'clock in the afternoon, and that the Dauntless had her main gaff carried away and sails split, and only escaped being cut into amidsips by the Pandora through the smartness of the Dauntless's skipper.

MANDALAY, June 16.—The Dacots are active in all parts of Burmah. A policeman's family have been butchered by them at Dhatan.

R. E. Lee Camp in Boston.

BOSTON, June 16.—Robert E. Lee Camp No. 1, Confederate Veterans of Richmond, Va., arrived in Boston this morning at 9 o'clock. They are the guests of Post 15 G. A. R. They were met at Fall River this morning by a delegation from Post 15, and upon their arrival in Boston a procession was formed consisting of the First Regiment Infantry, the National Landers, Post 2 G. A. R., and Post 15 G. A. R. The boys in gray received an ovation throughout the entire line of march, the enthusiasm of their greeting being extremely marked. Crowds lined the sidewalks along the entire walk, and through the squares the number of people was so great as to interfere with the march. All along the line the visitors were received with cheers and handclapping and no visiting organization has been accorded such a reception since the Dunker Hill centennial, when the Norfolk military was so royally entertained. The procession as it passed through School street was reviewed by Mayor O'Brien at the city hall and then passed through Beacon street, before the State House, where it was reviewed by Governor Ames and members of his staff. The column then marched to the Tremont House, where it was dismissed. Another procession will be formed this afternoon, when the guests will be taken on an excursion in Boston harbor.

A Protest.

DES MOINES, Iowa, June 16.—Gen. Tuttle, commander of the Grand Army of the Republic for Iowa, yesterday asked Gov. Larrabee to protest to President Cleveland against rebel flags captured by Iowa troops being surrendered to the south, and to take legal steps to enjoin any such surrender if it is contemplated. Gov. Larrabee has telegraphed the President an emphatic protest and will take legal steps if necessary to make the protest effective. The following was sent last night by Gov. Larrabee.

To the President of the United States, Washington: I send herewith a request made upon me as Governor of Iowa by the commander of the Grand Army of the Republic in this State against the proposed return to the south of the war flags captured by the union troops during the rebellion. I aid to this request and protest of the surviving union soldiers in Iowa, the respectful, but equally urgent protest of the people of the State, and shall deem it my duty to use all proper endeavor to prevent any such return of battle flags captured by Iowa troops.

WILLIAM LARRABEE.

The Wheat Panic.

CHICAGO, June 16.—A notice was posted up in the window of Kershaw & Co.'s office this morning, stating that the firm expected to pay all differences to day. The notice of Kershaw & Co. has produced an unfavorable impression. If he cannot meet his obligations, it is considered certain that a dozen brokerage firms will be dragged down to-day. Yesterday's failures number fifteen, the total liabilities being $361,000.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., June 16, 10:30 a. m.—The situation on "change this morning is devoid of sensational features. No settlements have been made, and everybody is waiting to hear what Kershaw intends to do. It is said that some of the local dealers are on the ragged edge, and that failures will follow if Kershaw lays down altogether. July wheat opened at 73½, advanced to 73½, and is now 73½.

Row at a Picnic.

St. Louis, Mo., June 16.—While the colored schools of Baden and Lowell, two northern suburbs of this city, were holding a picnic in Olafson Grove yesterday a gang of negro rowdies visited the grounds and kicked up a fuss with the refreshment booth keeper, whose beer they drank and then refused to pay for it. When Adams, the booth keeper, remonstrated, the rowdies assaulted him with clubs and drew pistols on him. Adams then went to his home, procured a Winchester rifle, returned and opened a promiscuous fire on the gang, two of whom, Jeff Smith and Henry Hall, he seriously wounded, the latter perhaps fatally, as he is shot in the left breast. Adams has been locked up.

Shooting Affray.

LITTLE ROCK, June 16.—A serious shooting affray occurred at El Dorado, Ark., yesterday, in which James Baird shot and fatally wounded Dr. Kimball. The doctor and a brother of Baird became involved in a quarrel. Young Baird presented a pistol, and Dr. Kimball, not being armed, started to get away. James Baird then came up behind the doctor and shot him down.

Probable Murder.

NEW YORK, June 16.—The Brooklyn authorities have telegraphed the police of this city that the dead body of Miss Caroline Keisler, a sister of Mrs. Richard Walker, of this city, had been found on the Staten Island beach. It is supposed that the woman was murdered and thrown in the water.

The Crown Prince's Condition.

LONDON, June 16.—Dr. Mackenzie to-day again examined the German Crown Prince's throat. The doctor reports that he found that the fungus growth had not enlarged and that there were no signs of congestion.

Mr. Blaine in Europe.

LONDON, June 16.—The North German Lloyd Company's Steamship Ems, which Mr. James G. Blaine is a passenger on, arrived off the Lizard at 6 o'clock this morning from New York.

POSSESSED BY THE DEVIL.—A novel case of murder is now being tried by the sub-magistrate of Mhrivudani, in the Madras district, India. The wife of the accused in this case was believed to be possessed with the devil, and was in consequence barren. On consulting the exorcists, the husband was told that nothing short of a human sacrifice would propitiate the devil. It was accordingly arranged among four or five people that a certain person in the village should be brought down near the tank and there killed and offered as a sacrifice. The victim was accordingly brought; arrack and toddy were freely offered to and drunk by him, so that he was soon reduced to a state of utter insensibility. His throat was then cut and his blood collected in a conch, was mixed with some rice, and small balls were made of this and offered to the deity. The people then went to the corpse and cut it into several parts and threw it in the tank; the same was found floating there the next day. The police then made inquiries, and suspecting the above people, arrested them. One of the accused has, it is reported, made a clean breast of the whole matter.

THEY SAW "THE MASTER."—The following incident was reported recently with respect to the "little war" in North Wales:—A formidable band of baillifs visited recently one of the largest farms in the disturbed district. On presenting themselves at the door of the house the baillifs inquired from the servant if her master was at home. "No, he is not," answered the servant. "Is your mistress in?" "Yes, she is; do you want to see her?" Upon this the mistress of the house, a smart sprightly woman, made her appearance. "Is the master in?" again inquired the baillifs. "Oh, yes, sure," was the ready reply; "would you like me to send him to you?" "If you please, missus," answered the baillifs. "Will you go into the yard, and he will be with you directly." The farmer's wife then closed the front door, passed through the back to the farm buildings and unlocked the bull, which came roaring into the yard where the baillifs were awaiting the "master." "There, that is the master here," called out the dame, as the representatives of the Ecclesiastical Commissioners beat a hasty retreat, mounting the gate and fence with the greatest alacrity.

A COW STRANGLED BY A SNAKE.—A cow met with a remarkable death by strangulation on a farm near Aurora, Ind., yesterday. Mr. Bruce, a farmer living near that place, while going through his pasture, noticed one of his cows acting queerly. The cow ran about the field, jumping from side to side in the strangest manner. Suddenly it dropped over on its side. Hastening over to where the cow lay Mr. Bruce found it dead. Determining to ascertain the cause of the creature's death, he caused its body to be opened. To his surprise and that of those present a large snake was found coiled up knotted in the throat of the animal. The cow had died from strangulation—been choked to death by the snake. She had evidently partially swallowed the reptile while drinking at a spring in the field, and the snake, in its efforts to escape from the closing gullet of the cow, had become knotted. Unable to advance or retreat, it had lodged in its strange receptacle and thus choked the animal to death.

A Few Facts for the Public.

1st. On the application of the Hydraulic Steam Fire Engine Company for an appropriation to complete the repairs on the engine house the Finance Committee reported adversely to the "further expenditure of money on property not owned by the city," and the report was concurred in. Proceedings of City Council, June 14.

2d. There are two engine houses in Alexandria, each containing valuable property belonging to the city.

3d. The roofs of both leak, and if the leaks continue that valuable property will be greatly injured.

4th. One of the engine houses was built by the company with the help of the citizens, but upon a lot to which the city holds the title; the other was built by the city itself at a cost of more than $5,000.

5th. The Finance Committee of the City Council, and it would seem, the Council itself, proposes to keep in repair the house which has cost the city $5,000 and more, and to let the one built by others, but of which the city has free use, go to ruin.

5th. It is vehemently denied that there is any favoritism or prejudice in all this.

HYDRAULION.

"I Love Her Better than Life."

Well, then, why don't you do something to bring back the roses to her cheeks and the light to her eyes? Don't you see she is suffering from nervous debility, the result of female weakness? A bottle of Dr. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription" will brighten those pale cheeks and send new life through that wasting form. If you love her, take heed.
